

Dear Adam Owner,

Congratulations on your purchase of ADAM™...the most streamlined state-of-the-art home computer available in one complete package! And now that you've had a little time to get used to operating and programming your new ADAM™, you're probably ready and anxious for a new challenge in the area of software. This special offer has been made available to you in an effort to effectively respond to your software needs.

The ADAM™ Home Software Library has been sent to you absolutely free, as part of your initial purchase of your ADAM™ Family Computer System. This collection contains 32 valuable programs, in six separate series. In your package, you will find four (4) Digital Data Packs and a 250 page instruction book which explains each program and provides codes to allow program modification. There are practical programs for home or business, teaching programs for all ages, brilliant graphics designs, challenging games, mathematics, and even a series of fascinating shorter programs.

With the ADAM™ Home Software Library, you're in command of more power than ever!
